

hotels will not only result in a healthier environment, but also provide the opportunity for students to become more aware of insects and their importance. The students at Lewis University will be more educated about insects, as well as learn to embrace their presence in all communities.